Understanding Islamic Capital Market Products with HSBC Amanah

2nd July 2010

HSBC Amanah in partnership with Indonesia Stock Exchange hosted a workshop on Islamic Capital Market for the media. The workshop was attended by leading business media representative such as Bisnis Indonesia, Media Indonesia, Jakarta Post, Gatra, Investor's Daily, Republika and others.

The workshop was hosted to socialize and give a better understanding on Shariah Capital Market products. Agung Pribadi, Vice President Product Development HSBC Amanah and Alfred Triestanto, AVP Investment Sales HSBC Indonesia, took their role as the panel of speakers, along with Irwan Abdalloh, Head of Market Development Indonesia Stock Exchange.

The main objective in this media workshop is basically to educate local media about the issues regarding capital market. Taking the opportunity from the Shariah Capital Market, the topic of discussion focused on Islamic funds, making investment plan and choosing the right investment for customer's need, whether it's for short-term or long-term as HSBC Amanah Advance provides a comprehensive range of products and services to cater the customer's need. Indonesia as one of the country with largest muslim population in the world is a very prospective market for Shariah products. Nowadays, Shariah Capital Market is starting to be recognized for its reputation as one of the competitive investment instrument, but still requires a better socialization to the public so they would have a better knowledge.
